POMEGRANATE

fresh & ready

From Mesopotamia to the Renaissance to modern day World artists, civilizations, religions and scientists have had an 8.000 years love affair with this fascinating fruit. Hicaz Pomegranate: The best known fruiting pomegranate variety in Turkey, produces large deep purple-red fruit with deep crimson juicy flesh, which is very high in antioxidants. Good for Juicing and eating fresh. The tree is vigorous and productive, with stunning flowers. Pomegranates grow best in areas with cold Winters and long hot, dry Summers. The fruit may not ripen if the summer season is too cool or too short. Although Fruit is grown in most areas of Turkish land, ideal location is south and western coasts of Turkey. We have long established partner growers in both regions, who we can count on year after year for harvesting most flavoursome produce in a well controlled way with GGAP certification.

fresh & ready

The quince (Turkish: Ayva) is a member of the Rosa family and a close relative of apples and pears. The wild fruit is thought to have originated in the regions of Anatolia, Greece and the Crimea. The most common varieties of quince in Turkey are the bardak, demir, ekmek, limon and esme. The bardak quince is most widely cultivated in the province of Kocaeli, and characterized by a downy peel, crisp juicy flesh and tangy flavor. Quinces are harvested in late September, tied in bunches, and stored in cellars for the winter. The demir ('iron') quince that ripens in October is aptly named on account of its hard dense texture. The ekmek or 'bread' quince that is gathered in September is a good keeper and preferred by many people because it does not have the astringent flavor of many quinces. The 'lemon' quince is another popular variety so called because of its bright yellow skin, and the esme is an eating variety widely cultivated in the Marmara region which keeps well until the end of March.

fresh & ready

Growing well in the hottest of climates, the peach was brought from Iran to Europe by the Spaniards. For this reason, the Romans called the fruit “Prunus persica,” or “Persian plum.” Two types are known in Turkey, one with white and the other with yellow flesh. The region of Bursa is famous for its large and juicy peaches that can be split into to exposing its seed. Turkey ranks 6th biggest grower in the World and 4th in Europe. The majority of the peach varieties planted in Turkey are Early Amber, Spring Crest, May Crest, Red Haven, Crest Haven and Early Red. Meyco is one of biggest exporter of peaches from Turkey, especially to Europe.

fresh & ready

There are more than one hundred varieties of sweet cherries produced in Turkey. The 0900 Ziraat variety, also known as a Turkish Napoleon, was developed in Turkey and is the most popular variety in Turkey because it meets the characteristics demanded by export markets. However, producers have started to try new cherry varieties such as Sweet Heart, Celeste, Kordia, Regina and Sunburst for higher quality products, later harvest (to capture higher prices later in the season) and higher yields. Meyco supplies cherries from certified partner growers and serve our customers in 500gr punnets for size +24 to +26; 5 kg boxes in sizes of +28 to +30 mm; and 2 kg boxes in size 32 plus. Other packing options are available on request.
